

A Mornington Peninsula Easter Long-Weekend

Four days, the vintage on the ridge, the markets at full programme, the season tipping. The four-day pacing the rest of the year doesn't allow.

Eight pages · Six venues · One four-day plan · Updated May 2026

Four days is the length the Peninsula was built for.

Two-night weekends are the Peninsula's native rhythm. Easter gives you four — and the vintage, and the markets, and a calendar quiet enough that the cellar doors aren't running tour buses through the rooms. The trade-off is that everyone else has worked this out, so book ahead.

This long-weekend guide is six venues we'd put at the centre of an Easter Friday-to-Monday, sequenced into a four-day plan with one anchor per day and breathing room between them. Use it as a starting frame, not a fixed schedule. Easter rewards loafing more than the calendar pretends.

The six

1. Montalto Vineyard & Olive Grove

$$$ · RED HILL

Single Vineyard Pinot Noir and a Sunday lunch beneath the olive grove canopy

2. Red Hill Estate

$$$ · RED HILL

One of the Peninsula's most photographed cellar-door views, home to Max's Restaurant and a well-regarded traditional-method sparkling program

3. Foxeys Hangout

$$ · RED HILL

Biodynamic Red Hill estate with an all-day deck, sunny long lunches, and a sparkling program that holds its own against French fizz

4. Pt. Leo Estate

$$$ · MERRICKS

A sculpture park walk followed by a long bay-view lunch in the glass-walled restaurant

5. Flinders Hotel

$$$ · FLINDERS

A polished village-base stay with proper pub energy downstairs and Bass Strait within easy reach

6. Polperro

$$$ · RED HILL

Small-production cool-climate pinot and chardonnay poured in one of the prettiest tasting rooms on the ridge

An Easter four-day plan

Good Friday

Drive down. Light dinner near the hotel; everything closes early. The bay walks at golden hour are the best of the weekend — Friday is when nobody is on them yet.

Saturday

Red Hill Market in the morning. Cellar door lunch on the ridge — book before you leave the city. Afternoon is light: a coast walk or a swim. Dinner at the hotel.

Easter Sunday

The long lunch is today. Two hours minimum. Walk it off afterwards along the bay or up Arthurs Seat. Dinner is small; the wine bill from lunch will speak for itself.

Easter Monday

Slow morning, no plans. Lunch is a counter meal in a Sorrento or Flinders pub. Drive home before 3 — Easter Monday traffic is its own genre of bad.
